The Irish Rain.

I must allow that it sometimes rains in Ireland, but Irish rain is not quite like other rain. It is, as a rule, softer than rain elsewhere, and if the truth must be told I like rain so long as one has not to say, "For the rain it raineth every day." Irish weather is not so much capricious as coquettish. It likes to plague you, if but to prepare you to enjoy the more its sunny, melting mood. It will weep and wail all night, and, lo the next morning Ireland is one sweet smile and seems to say: "Is it raining I was yesterday? Ah, then, I'll rain no more." And the rinnels leap and laugh and the pastures and every stone wall glisten; the larks carol on their celestial journey; there is a pungent, healthy smell of drying peat; the mountains are all dimpled with the joy of life and sunshine; the lake lies perfectly still, content to reflect the overhanging face of heaven, and just won't your honor buy the stoutest pair of homemade hose from a barefooted, bareheaded daughter of dethroned kings with eyes like dewdrops and a voice that would charm the coin out of the most churlish purse? If on such mornings as these you do not lose your heart to Ireland it must be made of stern, unimpressionable stuff indeed.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Charles Lamb and Tobacco.

Charles Lamb, according to his own confession, was "a fierce smoker of tobacco." One day when puffing vigorously the coarsest weed from a long clay pipe in company with Dr. Parr the latter asked him how he managed to acquire this "prodigious power." "By toiling after it, as some men toil after virtue," was the prompt reply. As he advanced in years, however, "Elia" was obliged to relax his intimacy with the weed, so that, to use his own words, he was "like a burnt out volcano emitting now and then only a casual puff." Eventually he took his formal leave in a "Farewell Ode to Tobacco," and in forwarding a copy of the poem to Wordsworth he writes, "I have had it in my head to do it these two years, but tobacco stood in its own light when it gave me headaches that prevented me singing its praises."

A Capful of Wind.

The origin of the phrase, "A capful of wind," can be traced to a Norse king, Eric VI., who died in 907 A. D. He was credited with the useful power of directing the wind to blow where he wished by the simple method of turning his cap to that point of the compass. His powers were much appreciated and trusted and resulted in his being known as "windy cap." There is no evidence as to whether he could regulate the force of the wind as well as the direction. Presumably he could, or his faithful believers would not have been so many. A "capful of wind" is another common expression and indicates something like a gale. This has been traced down to the classical legend of Aeolus and his captive winds confined in bags.

Collecting a Bill.

A claim was once placed in the hands of Judge Peters of Bangor, Me., for collection. A notice was sent to the debtor, who called and promised to pay the following Saturday. The judge said: "Now, don't say you will pay Saturday night unless you mean to. Just take a few more days and be sure. Say you will pay next Wednesday." "All right," said the man; "if I live until next Wednesday I will pay that bill." Wednesday came, but no man appeared to settle the bill, whereupon the judge wrote out a notice of the death of the man and put it in the daily paper. The next day the bill was settled.

Perfumes.

In the collection of perfumes two processes are employed. In one, the grease process, boxes with glass bottoms are prepared, the bottom being covered with pure grease or suet, and the flowers, gathered fresh every day during the season, are laid on trays in the box, the grease being left to absorb the fragrance. In the oil process the place of grease is taken by cotton batting saturated with oil, the process being substantially the same. In both cases the vehicle becomes impregnated with the essential oil and odor of flowers.

When Solid Iron Floats.

Experiments show that if a ball of solid iron is lowered into a mass of liquid iron by means of a metal fork the ball at first sinks to the bottom with the fork. But in a few seconds it leaves the prongs and rises to the surface, where it continues to float until it melts. The rising is explained by the expansion of the ball, due to heating, whereby it becomes, bulk for bulk, less dense than the molten metal.

The Law and the Sword.

In all governments there must of necessity be both the law and the sword. Laws without arms would give us not liberty, but licentiousness, and arms without laws would produce not subjection, but slavery.—Colton.

The Ways of Men.

Few doctors are willing to take their own medicine. When a lawyer gets into trouble he hastens to hire an attorney, and it is hard for people to admire an artist who paints his own portrait.—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Mission.

Skrawler—I've seen Snippem, the tailor, going up to your studio every day for a week. Is he sitting for you? Dauber—No. He's laying for me.—Cleveland Leader.

He Needed the Money.

"But is an operation absolutely necessary, doctor?"

"Certainly! I've got to have a vacation next month."—Smart Set.

THE SENSE OF SMELL.

Gas, According to a Scientist, Is Its Fundamental Basis.

Is the sense of smell excited by gases or particles? According to Dr. John Aitken, an English specialist, gas is the fundamental basis of the sense of smell. In experiments he first investigated musk, of which it is possible to detect by smell a microscopic quantity inconceivably minute, a fact well known to scientists. Dr. Aitken carried out his researches upon the cloudy condensation basis, according to which if odors are attributable to particles, the latter form nuclei of cloudy condensation in supersaturated air and thus make their presence visible.

In the case of musk no such nuclei were detected, proving that musk does not give off solid particles, but evaporates as a gas or vapor, and that it is gaseous particles from the musk that act on the sense of smell. Of twenty-three other odorous substances not one gave its perfume in solid particles, nothing but gases or vapors escaping from them.

Dr. Aitken points out that the nostrils appear to substantiate this theory. The perfume of snuff, for instance, is a soft, velvety sensation, while the effect of the solid is sharp and biting, more allied to pain than pleasure.

HAND MYSTERIES.

Man's "Lesser Side" Works to Keep the "Stronger Side" Free.

A group of men, which included a salesman for a Chicago cigar house, stood talking near the news stand in a hotel when the subject of cigars came up.

"Say, Striblen," said one of the men, "you're a cigar salesman. Tell me why it is that all smokers hold their cigars to the left side of the mouth."

"They don't," replied Striblen—"that is, all don't. It is only the right handed men who do. Left handed men hold their cigars in the right side of the mouth. The reason, I have been told, is this: It is natural with all men to make their 'lesser side' do what work it can to keep their 'stronger side' free that it may meet emergencies. If a man has a package to carry he holds it in his left hand if he is right handed; if he is left handed he holds it in his right hand. In either case the hand he has the most confidence in is free for emergency use. This same idea he stretches to cover the muscles of his lips. It isn't the possibility that he may need the muscles on the right side for emergency use that makes the right handed man hold his cigar in the left side of his mouth—it's just that idea about his whole 'lesser side' that makes him do it."—Denver Post.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS.

The Hardest to Make Are Orchids and American Beauty Roses.

The orchid and American Beauty rose are the two most difficult flowers to make. A skilled worker can construct only about six American Beauty roses in one day, and this number only when the leaves and petals are all ready to put together. The small flowers, like the jasmine, are also difficult to make, and only skilled hands can be intrusted with this work. The majority of the small and delicately made flowers imported for millinery uses are made in the prisons of France. The work of making flowers is pleasant and for skilled hands lucrative, the girls receiving all the way from $3 a week for beginners to $25 for the best workers. Much of the finer grades is given out for home work, women and girls taking huge boxes of flower petals and leaves to put together. One market for artificial flowers is that of the harnessmakers, who order bunches of violets and other small flowers and resell them to grooms for the decoration of their horses on tallyho trips and other gala occasions. Many of the handsome corsage bouquets of orchids and violets so much admired at the theater and opera are artificial.—Leslie's Weekly.

A Disgusted Musician.

Conductor Gericke, known as the "human metronome," had been giving a Wagner programme. After the concert one of the trombone players was heard to say to a fellow musician, "Well, I am going to quit." "Are you daffy?" said his friend. "What's the matter?" "Well, it's just this: In that Tristan und Isolde' number I momentarily forgot the technics of my instrument, got enthusiastic, filled my lungs for that magnificent passage for the brass, when up goes that fatal left hand, so I had to swallow my enthusiasm—and wind too. If I don't quit I am either going to burst or die of tuberculosis."

A Funny Misprint.

One of the most ludicrous announcements that ever appeared perhaps was made by a London newspaper in the earlier half of the last century to the effect that Sir Robert Peel "and a party of fiends were shooting peasants in Ireland." The words misprinted, of course, were "friends" and "pheasants."

A Matter of Money.

"Would you marry a woman who had sued another man for breach of promise?"

"Well, it would depend largely on how much the jury had compelled him to pay her."—Chicago Record-Herald.

She Was Ready.

"What a loud peal that is at the doorbell."

"Yes; Mr. Catchem is coming this evening. I rather think that is my engagement ring."—Baltimore American.

Happy the man who early learns the wide chasm that lies between his wishes and his powers.—Goethe.

FURNITURE.

What You Should Do to Keep It In Good Condition.

Furniture, to be preserved in good condition, should be polished once a week. If this care is given it, and with ordinary good usage, it will not need to go to the repair shop for many years.

To counteract the ill effects of steam heat, which cracks and warps all the lighter kinds of furniture, the wood should be rubbed regularly with a flannel dipped in equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine and afterward dried with a soft cloth.

Much of the bamboo furniture is improved by washing with cold water and soap. The wicker furniture of the unstained variety should be regularly scrubbed with the brush. And if kept clean in this way it will maintain its state of beauty and usefulness much longer.

The mahogany table with the ordinary stains can be cleaned with tepid water and soap on a soft cloth. After washing, the table should be thoroughly dried and then rubbed with a clean flannel and a little linseed oil or crude petroleum. Only a few drops of the oil should be used at a time, and they should be thoroughly rubbed in until the surface shines without a suspicion of greasiness.

If a piece of furniture has not been polished for a long time it will take several applications at intervals of a few days to make the wood glossy and smooth, but the labor is amply rewarded finally by the well cared for and highly polished finish it acquires.

Rosewood and black walnut should be treated in the same way as mahogany—that is, rubbed with linseed oil or crude petroleum. But the preliminary washing applies only to the mahogany.

Black oak, unless very frequently dusted and rubbed with oil, presents a dishearteningly grimy aspect.

The oil in this case should be rubbed off, and not a particle allowed to remain, as it will simply act as a dust collector. When a wood is very highly varnished it should be washed with tea water—that is to say, water in which tea has been steeped for half an hour. This water will not impair the gloss as does ordinary soap and water.

If the linseed oil is not successful in creating a polish, a wineglass of olive oil, the same quantity of vinegar and two tablespoonfuls of alcohol, shaken together and thoroughly mixed, make a good varnish. This dressing is applied with a soft cloth, and the surface of the wood must be polished with a piece of flannel until thoroughly dry and glossy.—New York World.

HANDKERCHIEF CASE.

A Pretty One That Any Clever Girl Can Make at Home.

No girl need be without a pretty handkerchief case, as it is easy to make one. That shown in the illustration is of white and blue figured silk with linings of white silk. White silk ribbon three inches wide forms the puff or extension and is sewed on very full to give a puffy effect when the covers are closed. To make it, cut six pieces of thin cardboard 4 by 4 inches in size. The same number of pieces of silk are needed, three of the figured material and three of plain white. For the bottom take the cardboard and baste one square of figured silk to one piece and one of plain to the other, placing the two together and sewing over and over as in the old fashioned pin balls of our grandmothers' time.

The remaining four squares are cut in two, making four half covers, which lap two over the other two when case is completed. These are covered and put together in the same way as the bottom, being sure that the material is cut larger than the half squares of cardboard, so that when sewed together the material will be perfectly smooth. When all have been covered sew the bottom and covers to the ribbon sides, the ribbon for the covers being divided into fourths, as shown in the illustration.

Girls and Their Clothes.

One of the things that many mothers teach their daughters and seem to regard as one of the paramount virtues is that every garment must be put carefully away as soon as removed.

Often as a girl I spent the night with some friend after a ball and the dress and gloves were put carefully away in a clothes chest or wardrobe. What could be worse? No chance to air and always more or less damp with perspiration.

You will find your garments far fresher and more hygienic if you will spread them out, inside exposed, in an empty room for at least twelve hours before putting them in their places. Have a window open in the room if possible. The members of my family always hang their clothes over chairs before open windows at night all the year around. It is good for the clothing and better for the wearer. The mother who teaches her child to fold each garment carefully and pile one on another in a chair is teaching order, but disregarding health. Order may be heaven's first law, but it is equally true that "cleanliness is akin to godliness."—Exchange.

PURE BLOOD IS VITAL

Not everyone realizes the vital necessity of keeping the blood pure at all times. Impure blood not only causes various derangements and inability to perform one's work well, but gives a ready welcome to all germs of disease with which it comes in contact. It is the rankest extravagance to allow the human blood to remain in an impure or impoverished condition. "Our Standard Remedy" is the safest, purest and best blood purifier on the market to-day. It is a new remedy, a purely vegetable preparation composed of roots, barks and herbs, and contains no calomel or other injurious or metallic drug. 204 doses for $1, with a written guarantee that your money will be refunded if you are not cured of all troubles caused directly or indirectly by bad blood. THE SUMMER TRADE

Quite a large number of guests are already in the valley and are comfortably settled at the various hotels and resorts. This summer's trade promises to be up to the average, notwithstanding the late unpleasantness caused by mother nature getting her back up.

As soon as the San Francisco banks open for business it is confidently expected the usual large crowd will enjoy their outing in fine old Sonoma Valley.

Get interested in your town and staud by it. If a rich man starts a project, encourage him; or if a poor man, help him. Don't be afraid to stick your hand in your pocket. If you have means invest in something that will give employment to somebody. Do not kick on every proposition simply because it is not at your door. Do all you can to beautify the town and your property also. Be friendly to everybody and courteous to strangers, and never forget that you are a part of the town and that your own deportment does its share in giving the town its character. Stand by all enterprising citizens and be ready to do some of the work yourself and don't spend your time in grumbling and prophesying failures.

Don't be a calamity howler, one of the greatest pests modern times has to endure. "Hope springs eternal in the human brest, Man never is, but always to be blessed."

Don't help to destroy human faith in the future by being and talking gloomy. Cut it out.

The commercial banks will soon be open, millions of money is pouring into the state and the continuance of prosperty is assurred.

The steel trust has announced that in spite of the increased demand there will be no increase in the price of steel rails, the trust being willing to accept about $6 a ton more from American consumers than they receive from their foreign patrons.

Now then, let us quit talking earthquake, hearing earthquake, reading earthquake and feeling earthquake and get to work. It is not every community that can have a quake before breakfast, of course, but even that, great as it is, gets tiresome after a while Please let up.—Windsor Herald.

The Santa Rosa banks have been open and doing business this week. So far the deposits have exceeded withdrawals.

The Golden Eagle Milling Company's mill in Petaluma, has been running day and night since the earthquake in order to keep up with the rush of orders which have been coming in since that time. However the mill has run out of sacks, and the management is in a quandary what to do. A lot of sacks has been ordered from Portland.

High School News

The Trustees of the Sonoma Valley Union High School, met Wednesday afternoon to receive the report of Architect Brainerd Jones on the condition of the high school building.

The trustees believe in doing things properly and hence secured the service of an expert who knows the condition of buildings and can give a reliable opinion.

Mr. Jones made very thorough and careful examination of the building and pronounced it "absolutely unsafe" and advised its abondonment. Acting upon this report the Board practially decided to abandon the building for school purposes.

The Board of Trustees state that they are now ready to receive and consider propositions and plans for a new school building.

The school is now in excellent condition and will be placed on the accredited list this summer. The University examiners have stated that there is no better conducted and better equipped high school in the state.

The trustees and people are too proud of our school and too sensible of its great value to the valley to hesitate one moment in providing for its continued usefulness and growth.

There is ample time between now and the beginning of next term to make preparations for the housing of the high school, whith is one of the valley's most valued and attractive assets.

The people of Sonoma Valley are just as enlightened and enterprising as those of any other sections and are no more to be discouraged and set back 50 years in the march of progress than those of any other section. It takes more than an earthquske to discourage the indomitable spirit of the pioneers that is still strong in their sons and daughters.

A good high school is an absolute necessity to every community that lays any claim to advancement beyond 49' days and Sonoma people are going to "hold fast to that which is good."

R. J. Dowdall, of El Verano, is President and Robert P. Hill of Eldridge, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of Sonoma Valley Union High School.

Will Give Garden Tea

A Garden Tea will be given Thursday afternoon May 24th., by the Congregational Ladies Aid Society, at the home of Mrs. F. T. Duhring. There will be music, and a sale of kitchen aprons, candy ice cream and coffee.

Board of Supervisors Begin Retrenchment

The Board of Supervisors began to put retrenchment measures into operation this morning, and as a result abolished the office of horticultural commissioner to take effect June 1, and discontinued the display in the State Board of Trade rooms, to be effective July 1.

Matters relating to the Markham bridge were postponed indennitely.

The Board drove over to El Verano last week and inspected the bridge crossing Sonoma Creek. Last Friday a contract was let to the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific company to repair the structure at a cost of $14,300. Bond of $7500 required.

No Plants Damaged

Luther Burbank has reported that not of his plants, even the most sensitive, was damaged the slighest by the recent temblor. This is splendid news, for Mr. Burbank has in his keeping plants which are easily destroyed by the slighest happenings.

At the present time Mr. Burbank is handling many experiments, and is going into the matter on a more extensive scale this season than formerly. A large collection of bulbs and seeds has recently been received by him from collectors in various foreign countries, principally South America and India.

GOES TO PRISON AT LAST

After two sensational trials and eight years of the bitterest legal battle, Mrs. Cordelia Botkin, the murderess of Mrs. J. P. Dunning, went to San Quentin Tuesday to begin her service of life imprisonment. Judge Cook signed the commitment.

A Generous Official

Instead of charging the fee he could have legally collected in each of the sixty-nine inquests resulting from the recent disaster, Coroner Blackburn's bill was $50 foe them all, and he turned the $50 into the fund for the relief of oefugees. The regular charge would run into several hundred dollars.

WINE BRANDY

The California Wine Association, Gundlach, Bundschu & Co., Lachman & Jacobi, and other large wine dealers in the metropolis, lost millions of dollars worth of the stuff that cheers and also inebriates, by the recent earthquake and fire in San Francisco.

Immense quantities of all kinds of wine were ssilled into the cellars from which it has been pumped into barges and taken to distilleries in various parts of the state to be made into brandy. The firms thus saved something from the wreck of their cellars.

Visitors to San Francisco

Travel to San Francisco, especially on Sundays still continues heavy. Among the well known Sonoma people who viewed the ruins in the metropolis last Sunday were: Mrs. Geo. Engler, Mrs. Pauline McMullen, A. Clerici, Jas. F. Tate, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johannsen, Mrs. Dennison. Henry Weyl, Miss Kate McDonnell, R. A. McDonnell, Frank McGill, Mrs. Fred Lowell and George Lowell.

BEAR FLAG LOST

The original Bear Flag, about which centers so much of the early history of old Sonoma, was destroyed in the recent fire in San Francisco. The precious relic was hanging in Pioneer Hall. which was destroyed with all of its contents.

Some of the companies are still telling the people how rich they are and how they intend to pay all "just claims." Action speaks louder than words and far more to the point.

The matters of the calendars of Judge Albert G. Burnett and Judge Emmet Seawell have been continued for one week. If the legal holidays being declared by the Governor, have been terminated by next Monday, the courts will begin their usual grind of business again. If the legal holidays still continue, the cases will be likewise continued.

"O woman! lovely woman! nature made thee to temper man; we had been brutes without you." Woman more than merits all the good things that have been said of her by the wits and poets of all times. When man lauds woman and her charms and virtues, he has in his mind's eye an ideal. That ideal is always a healthy woman. No man makes pretty speeches and witty toasts about woman, with the picture in his mind of a weak, sickly, nervous woman, tortured by pain, and suffering from depression and despondency. It is in the power of every woman to be some man's ideal if she will but build up and guard her womanly health.

The best of known remedies for all forms of disease peculiar to women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It works directly on but one set of organs in a woman's body. It allays and eradicates pain. It soothes inflammation. It invigorates and purifies. It restores complete health to the organs distinctly feminine and banishes weakness, depression and despondency. It is the discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. If you wish to know more about it write to him.

"As your 'Favorite Prescription' has done so much for me, I am pleased to tell you my experience," writes Mrs. Belle Griffith, of Cherokee, Ky. "I had been troubled with indigestion, female troubles and urinary trouble for three years, also neuralgia and a dizzy headache; after taking eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicines I was greatly improved in health. Can sew on machine now, something I had not done in three years, and can eat almost anything I wish. Am pleased to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to any of my friends. I feel that you have a wonderful remedy."

"For fifteen years I suffered each month with severe pains, and this suffering increased until my general health became so poor I could hardly get around," writes Mrs. M. J. Jones, of Buncom, Oregon. "My husband wished me to write to Dr. Pierce, which I did, and he advised his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' When I commenced taking these medicines could hardly stand on my feet, and to sit down was even worse than standing. Before I had taken one bottle of the 'Favorite Prescription' I began to feel better, and since taking ten bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and three vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets I feel stronger than I have for years. I believe that all women suffering as I did can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

DR. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PELLETS

Cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation of the bowels, loss of appetite, coated tongue, sour stomach, windy belchings, "heart-burn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

Persons subject to any of these troubles should never be without a vial of the "Pleasant Pellets" at hand. They are always adopted as a household remedy after the first trial. Put up in glass vials, tightly corked, therefore always fresh and reliable.

One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are cathartic. They regulate, invigorate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, take one each day. To relieve the distress arising from overeating, nothing equals one of these little "Pellets." They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, scarcely larger than mustard seeds.

$8.50 PUNCTURE-PROOF TIRES ONLY $4.80 PER PAIR

Regular Price $8.50 per pair. To Introduce We Will Sell You a Sample Pair for Only $4.80 (CASH WITH ORDER $4.55)

NAILS, TACKS OR GLASS WON'T LET OUT THE AIR

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES.

Result of 15 years experience in tire making. No danger from THORNS, CACTUS, PINS, NAILS, TACKS or GLASS. Serious punctures, like intentional knife cuts, can be vulcanized like any other tire.

Two Hundred Thousand pairs now in actual use. Over Seventy-five Thousand pairs sold last year.

Notice the thick rubber tread "A" and puncture strips "B" and "D," also rim strip "H" to prevent rim cutting. This tire will outlast any other make—SOFT, ELASTIC and EASY RIDING.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. That "Holding Back" sensation commonly felt when riding on asphalt or soft roads is overcome by the patent "Basket Weave" tread which prevents all air from being squeezed out between the tire and the road thus overcoming all suction. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C.O.D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump and two Sampson metal puncture closers on full paid orders (these metal puncture closers to be used in case of intentional knife cuts or heavy gashes). Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination.

We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. Ask your Postmaster, Banker, Express or Freight Agent or the Editor of this paper about us. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a small trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

COASTER-BRAKES, built-up-wheels, saddles, pedals, parts and repairs, and everything in the bicycle line are sold by us at half the usual prices charged by dealers and repair men. Write for our big SUNDRY catalogue.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

APPLE SCAB.

The Worst Disease of the Apple. Thrives In Damp Early Summer.

By B. O. LONGYEAR, Michigan Experiment Station.

The disease of the apple commonly known as "scab" or in some cases as "black spot" is probably familiar to every grower of this fruit. It first appears in spring on the young foliage, producing velvety, olive colored patches. This form is sometimes known as "mildew" or "leaf blight." In severe cases the leaves become shriveled and discolored, eventually falling off. The fungus also attacks the stems of the young apples at blossoming time, especially if the weather at this time is unusually cool and moist. This causes the young fruit to shrivel and drop off, often greatly reducing the crop of mature fruit.

The most characteristic effects of this fungous parasite, however, are found on the fruit itself. Here the spots at first appear much like those on the leaves, but as the fruit develops the fungus works under the cuticle, or outer layer of the skin, causing it to scale off. These spots on mature apples have a dark brown or blackish color, with a narrow border of a light gray color. The spots are usually most numerous around the blossom end of the fruit. On badly affected fruit the spots run together, sometimes covering one-third of the surface. Deep cracks often occur in such cases, which allow the apple to dry out.

Apple scab is without doubt the worst disease affecting this fruit. This is due not alone to its destruction of the foliage and young apples or to the unsightly spots which it causes on the mature fruit. In addition to all this, it opens a way for the entrance of numerous rot producing fungi into the tissues of the mature apple. Thus during the season of 1899, which were characterized in this state by an unusual rainfall, great quantities of apples were lost soon after packing and in storage and even during shipment through the agency of these soft rots following apple scab. In some cases apples affected with scab began rotting while still attached to the trees, the loss amounting to four-fifths of the entire crop.

The fungus of apple scab thrives during moist, cool weather, especially during the early part of summer. Fruit grown on closely crowded trees where air and light are shut out appears to be more severely affected than where the opposite conditions prevail. Therefore a location securing good ventilation, proper spacing of trees and systematic pruning are to be considered as preventive measures in the case of this disease. It has been found that the fungus passes the winter on the fallen leaves, appearing as minute black bodies buried in the leaf tissues. From these are given off, in the following spring, the first crop of spores which attack the lower leaves, the disease later spreading to all parts of the tree. Thus another preventive measure is suggested and recommended—viz, the destroying of these dead leaves, which serve as agents of infection. This may be done either by raking and burning them or by plowing them under in the spring before the spores are shed.

The planting of varieties which are naturally less subject to the scab is also to be considered as a preventive measure. Spraying for the prevention and treatment of this disease has proved of unquestioned value and a paying investment to the apple grower. The first application made before the buds open may be copper sulphate solution, which is cheaper and easier to prepare and use than bordeaux mixture. By many growers this application is considered the most important one for fungous diseases and should not be neglected. After the leaves appear it will be necessary to use bordeaux mixture, the first application of this spray to be used just before blossoming. This is the most important treatment of the season. The second after the blossoms fall and two or three other applications at intervals of ten days to two weeks will prove beneficial, especially if the season is a wet one. The final spray may consist of a weak solution of copper sulphate to avoid staining the fruit.

A WONDERFUL PROOF.

The Burning Glass as a Demonstrator of the Sun's Heat.

"The sun's heat is so great"—

But an intelligent young woman interrupted the scientist impatiently.

"After all," she said, "it is guesswork, this talk about the excessive heat of the sun. You can't prove any of your claims."

He was disgusted.

"I can't?" he cried. "Why, it is the easiest thing in the world to prove that the sun is hot enough to melt iron, granite, the hardest substances known, into liquid, into steam."

"How would you make such a proof?" she asked incredulously.

"With the burning glass," said he. "A burning glass is slightly rounded. Thus it bends into a focus—it concentrates upon one small point—a number of sun rays. The tiniest burning glass, catching only a few rays, will light a fire, set off a gun or bore a red hole in your hand."

"Yes."

"The solar heat which the burning glass collects for us is the tiniest fraction of the sun's actual heat. We can prove this by focusing with our glass rays from a powerful lamp or a great fire. We get a small, bright spot, a little heat, but this heat is nothing to compare with the heat of the lamp itself.

"So, knowing, now, that the solar heat which the burning glass gives to us is but a fraction of the heat of the sun, we take a burning glass a yard in diameter—such glasses have been made for the sole purpose of convincing skeptical persons like yourself—and this glass concentrates many hundreds of sun rays for us, and it gives us a heat greater than we can obtain in any furnace, a heat that will melt rock into vapor."

The scientist smiled triumphantly.

"There is your proof," he said. "The burning glass will only collect a tiny portion of a burning object's heat, and the tiny portion of the sun's heat that it gives us is yet sufficient to change in a jiffy a block of granite into a puff of steam."—Exchange.

A FEARFUL PEST.

The Ferocious Mosquitoes That Swarm In Scandinavia.

Hunters find the mosquitoes a terrible pest in parts of northern Scandinavia. One writes: "The warmth of the sun is rousing our deadly enemies, the mosquitoes, into active warfare. Attacked as we are by a few score of viciously piping skirmishers from the mighty host, we have before advancing to look to the joints of our harness and don our gauntlets; then in descending the long slope toward our bivouac the scores of the foe are gradually multiplied to hundreds, the hundreds to thousands, the thousands to myriads, till we are at length enveloped in a dense cloud of winged furies. The horses are a distressing sight. From nose to tail, from hoof to withers, their unfortunate bodies are covered with what might be taken at a casual glance for gray blanket clothing, but which is really a textile mass of seething insect life, so closely set that you could not anywhere put the point of your finger on the bare hide.

"For such small creatures mosquitoes exhibit an astonishing amount of character and diabolical intelligence. They dash through smoke, creep under veil or wristband like a ferret into a rabbit hole and when they can neither dash nor creep will bide their time with the cunning of a red Indian. We wore stout dogskin gloves, articles with which they could have had no previous acquaintance, and yet they would follow each other by hundreds in single file up and down the seams, trying every stitch, in the hope of detecting a flaw."

And the same writer concludes: "The problem presents itself. Why are these vermin so horribly bloodthirsty and so perfectly formed for sucking blood? It is one of the great mysteries of nature. On the uninhabited stretches of Finmark they must as a rule exist on vegetable diet, the chances of blood so rarely occur."

Genesis of Cotton In America.

The first planting of cotton seed in the colonies was in the Carolinas in the year 1621, when seeds were planted as an experiment in a garden. Winthrop says that in 1643 "men fell to the manufacture of cotton, whereof we have great stores from Barbados." In 1736 it was cultivated in the gardens along Chesapeake bay, especially in the vicinity of Baltimore, and at the opening of the Revolution it was a garden plant in New Jersey and New York, but its real value seems to have been almost unknown to the planters until about 1780.

The Chameleon.

The American chameleon, a small lizard, inhabits various parts of the southern United States. The little animal has the remarkable habit of quickly and completely changing its colors, varying from brown to yellow and pale green. Its food consists of insects. The little animal is perfectly harmless to higher forms of life, is often kept as a pet and has been worn attached to a chain as an ornament. The toes are provided with adhesive pads, which enable the lizard to run upon smooth, vertical surfaces.

The Room at the Top.

"All the lower berths are taken," said the ticket seller. "You'll have to take an upper berth."

"Of course," grumbled the professor. "There's always room at the top."—Chicago Tribune.

In the British museum are books written on oyster shells, bricks, tiles, bones, ivory, lead, iron, copper, sheepskin, wood and palm leaves.

Food of the Oyster.

"Many gallons, probably many barrels, of water are drawn through the gills of each oyster each day," writes a university professor, "and the microscopic beings that it may hold are strained out and pushed along into the oyster's mouth. Each microscopic organism is a long time in traveling from the point where it first touches the gill to the oyster's stomach; all this while it is alive and capable of becoming the parent of new generations when removed from the gill and placed under suitable conditions. Most of these organisms are wholesome to man, and all that enter the oyster's stomach are quickly killed and converted into its palatable and nutritious substance, but so long as they are traveling along the gills all are alive and, some are extremely dangerous to man. The oyster exercises choice in the selection of its food, rejecting some of the microscopic organisms and swallowing others, but those that are discharged into the water with the sewage of cities are not unfortunately among the ones that are rejected, and before these have entered the oyster's stomach they are most favorably placed for gaining entrance into human stomachs and multiplying there."

Queer Beliefs About the Fern.

The fern was supposed to seed only on St. John's night and thus to possess those singular properties for which it had become almost sacred. The gathering of the seed was believed to be attended with considerable danger. Povet in his "Pandemonium," published in 1684, says: "Much discourse hath been about gathering of fern seed (which is looked upon as a magical herb) on the night of midsummer's eve, and I remember I was told of one who went to gather it, and the spirits whisked by his ears like bullets and sometimes struck his hat and other parts of his body. In fine, though he apprehended he had got a quantity of it and secured it in papers and box beside, when he got home he found all empty. But most probable this appointing of time and hours is of the devil's own institution, as well as the fact that, having once ensnared people to an obedience to his rules, he may with more facility oblige them to stricter vassalage."

Dickens' Gay Clothes.

We were walking down Wellington street, Strand, and just passing the office of Household Words, when a hansom cab stopped, and out stepped a gayly dressed gentleman. His bright green waistcoat, vivid scarlet tie and pale lavender trousers would have been noticed by any one, but the size of the nosegay in his buttonhole riveted my attention, for it was a regular flower garden. My father stopped and introduced me, and I, who had only seen engravings of the Maclise portrait and a very handsome head in my mother's photograph album, was astonished to find myself shaking hands with the great novelist Charles Dickens.—From Miss Friswell's "Recollections."

The Gilded Man.

At the headwaters of the Orinoco the Spanish traditions located the land of El Dorado, "The Gilded Man," a potentate whose country was so rich in gold dust that he had his body anointed with oil and sprinkled with gold every morning, so that he shone in the sun as though gilded. It is a curious fact that the country in which tradition located this marvelous being has never been explored by a white man.

Monkeys' Rouge.

"Kamala" is the vernacular name of the red dye produced from the glands of the mature fruit of a tree named "Mallotus philippinensis," which is also called the "monkey face tree" because monkeys paint their faces red by rubbing them with the fruit. Here is a striking instance of the influence of heredity.—Madras Mail.

Observation.

To behold is not necessarily to observe, and the power of comparing and combining is only to be obtained by education. It is much to be regretted that habits of exact observation are not cultivated in our schools. To this deficiency may be traced much of the fallacious reasoning and the false philosophy which prevail.—W. Humboldt.

There Was Cause.

"Have you fastened the windows, dear?" she asked as they were about to retire for the night.

"No. What's the use? I gave you the last dollar I had to buy that hat, and we need not fear burglars."

"But they might sit down on my hat, you know."

It is a wise man who knows his own business, and it is a wiser one who thoroughly attends to it.—Wayland.
